The Double X Economy

Linda Scott (A&U)

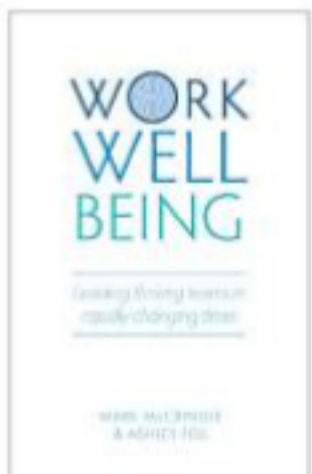

An exhaustively researched analysis of global gender inequality and cogent argument for economically empowering women by this World Bank Group gender economics consultant.

Flash Crash

Liam Vaughan (HarperCollins)

On 6 May 2010, the biggest crash in Dow Jones history saw markets plunge by US$1 trillion. The young man with Asperger's accused by the FBI of triggering the crash had a preternatural talent for trading. A fascinating tale of a fragile financial system.

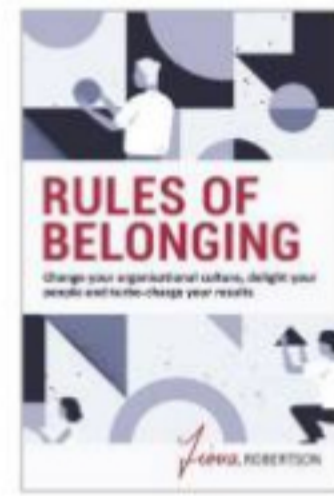

Work Wellbeing

Mark McCrindle & Ashley Fell (Rockpool)

Surveys show more than 80 per cent of employees feel it is an employer's responsibility to facilitate workplace wellbeing. This data-driven guide gives leaders the tools to improve team morale, culture and productivity.

Rules of Belonging

Fiona Robertson (Major Street)

Organisational culture is on every Australian board's agenda, partly as a result of the banking Royal Commission, which exposed the potential chaos caused by dysfunctional teams. Robertson's premise is simple: culture is the rules of belonging – change those rules, you change your culture. This is a straightforward and practical guide to measuring, managing and addressing culture – with immediate results.
